Five-Twenties—Impeachment

[From the Washington Chronicle]

The disgusting egotism which Acting President Johnson exhibited in the early part of his administration and which was finally crystalized into the well known phrase, "My policy" is still assiduously cultivated not only by himself, but by his friends and adherents His influence, which comparatively amounts to nothing now, is represented to be so immense and far reaching as to fill not only the United States but Europe, and to entwine itself with every subject of legislative and judicial action In ordinary times the policy of the administration of an American President is of considerable importance, not only at home, but abroad but it is only when it is backed by the strong support of a majority of the American people When as in the case of Johnson that support is either feeble or entirely removed or when it is wholly concentrated upon another branch of the Government, it is immaterial what policy the administration sees proper to adopt A President who sustained such an overwhelming and ignoble defeat before the people as Johnson did last autumn, cannot reasonably expect to have much weight either in his own or other countries It is in this light that the attempt of the President's newspaper organs throughout the country to make it appear that the investigation into his official conduct now in progress before the Judiciary Committee of the House, has already shaken confidence in our national securities at home and abroad and that his impeachment would dissolve the republic, seems supremely ridiculous This is simply a cunning device to frighten timid people, and, if we are to believe the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, it derives its immediate inspiration from the President himself A recent dispatch to that paper says

"The latest advices from Europe state that Government securities of all kinds were constantly advancing in price, and the demand for them increasing The statement therefore, in two New York morning papers, telegraphed from Washington, that they were about being returned on account of apprehension of difficulties growing out of the proposed impeachment of the President, is not to be relied on The statement was furnished to the correspondents of the two papers above alluded to by the President himself, in order to create public opinion against the Republican party and the movement toward impeachment and was published at his instance and request"

We have italicised what seems to us the most infamous part of the alleged conduct of the Executive Without knowing whether it is true or false, we have only to say that it is just what might be expected from the man who garbled General Sheridan's New Orleans dispatch to serve his own partisan purpose. If Johnson and his parasites suppose that the American people can be frightened from their purpose by any such transparent tricks as these, they will find themselves as egregiously deceived as they were about the result of the American elections The truth is, that the announcement of the action of the House with regard to the investigation into Johnson's official conduct had no material effect either at home or abroad upon the national securities If anything, we believe they were a shade more buoyant and in better demand. Certainly, since the investigation commenced the quotations in Wall street, London, and Frankfort are as high as at any period since the close of the rebellion, and the financial world moves on just as smoothly as though no such man as Johnson existed The acting President and his partisans forget that the very people who hold the great mass of the public debt are those who have signified their unqualified disapproval of his conduct, who are heartily sick and tired of his policy, and who would calmly witness his removal from office without a single regret. As to the two or three hundred millions of five twenties held abroad, mostly by foreign speculators, they are scarcely as a drop in the bucket to the aggregate of the debt in the hands of our own people, and if they were all returned to-morrow they would be eagerly bought up at better prices than they command in Europe. We have always considered the shipment of our bonds to foreign markets as more of a misfortune than a blessing They are bought and sold there by a set of speculators, and the prices obtained for them are not by any means to our national credit and pride, considering our position among the great Powers of the earth. If the only calamity we have to dread, therefore, in case the acting President is impeached, is a speedy return of our securities from Europe, we do not see that there is much cause for trepidation or alarm The idea that they would suffer in such an event is simply ridiculous During the war, and while the fog of uncertainty shut out the full vision of perfect success, there was a class of men —"operators in gold and stocks"—who narrowly watched the ebb and flow of the tide of war, and who found it quite possible to either "bull" or "bear" the market, according to the tenor of the news from the battle field or the action of the Cabinet on questions of State policy But they have had their day, at least so far as Government securities are concerned Did they wield their old power, we have no doubt they would be valuable aids to Johnson and his friends in their attempt to frighten the House Judiciary Committee This thing of supposing that any one man is of such supreme importance, either in the affairs of the Government of the United States or of the world, that chaos would come again upon his removal from office, or from the earth itself, is one of the unburied humbugs of the age It is gratifying to know that but a small moiety of the millions of the American people entertain the idea When the great and good Lincoln was removed from office and from earth at once by the hand of an accursed assassin, and the best hopes of the loyal millions seemed blasted, the wheels of Government went on uninterrupted, though the Republic was just emerging from an unprecedented internecine war Will the country go to pieces will it suffer either in its finances, its credit or its commerce, should it become necessary for the people to remove Andrew Johnson from an office which he has so shamefully disgraced?

SNOW IN VERMONT.—Up in Northern Vermont they have a story telling fellow by the name of Dr Austin In his old age he purchased a farm and went to farming He tells a story of his first experience making sugar There had been an unusual fall of snow that winter and himself and his man went around on the crust, tapped the trees and hung the buckets to them There came a thaw and he thought it well to send John to look after them John came back and reported that some one had stolen them The doctor accompanied John to the lot, and he, too, thought a thief had been around. But on looking up the sides of the trees, there were the buckets almost out of sight

Mrs. Grant was interested as her husband was uninterested She wore a rich and heavy green silk, with a black lace bertha No one dare call her a beautiful woman, but she has a kindly face and is of pleasant, matronly manners There is one mystery to the soul of man how do women so readily learn the easy and graceful courtesies of good society? But a year or two ago Mrs Grant knew only Galena and Illinois—now she receives the ton of the capital with as little embarrassment as though she had always moved therein Verily there be some things hard to understand

Of the Polish exiles who took up arms in Siberia, and attempted to fight their way to China and Japan 26 were sentenced to be shot 174 to have a hundred lashes and if they survived to be sent to the mines 92 to be put to hard labor, 133 to be kept under surveillance A number of others succeeded in getting away

It is said that the bullion now in the treasury of Russia, at Moscow greatly exceeds the sum held by the bank of England The estimated value of gems and jewels is almost fabulous before which the Crown jewels and regalia of England sink into comparative insignificance

The Ganges carries away from the soil of India and delivers into the sea twice as much solid substance weekly as is contained in the Great Pyramid of Egypt The Irawaddy sweeps off from Birmah sixty two cubic feet of earth in every second of time

The town of Pelham has been indicted in the Supreme Court of Northampton, Mass, for not maintaining its common schools for six months in the year.

To relieve herself of the care of a small child, a servant girl in Memphis administered to it a dose of laudanum and sent the innocent to its sleep eternal.

In the House Julian of Indiana introduced a bill fixing the time for election of Representatives and Delegates to Congress and a bill to constitute eight hours as a legal day's work for mechanics and laborers employed by or in behalf of the Government Referred to the Judiciary Committee Adjourned.

Massachusetts Ratifies the Amendment.

BOSTON March 14.—The lower branch of the Massachusetts Legislature passed the Constitutional Amendment by 120 to 20.

Politics in Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, R I, March 14.—The Democratic State Convention to-day nominated Lyman Pierce for Governor C H Durfee for Lieutenant-Governor, Wm J Miller for Secretary of State, George N. Bliss for Attorney General, and James Atkins for Treasurer

Michigan Copperheads Crawling

DETROIT March 14.—The Democratic State Convention held yesterday, adopted resolutions denouncing the reconstruction act and declaring that the enfranchisement of the negroes and the disfranchisement of the whites, as portended by Congressional action is unconstitutional arbitrary and revolutionary

The Great Flood

CAIRO Ill, March 14.—Officers of the steamer Rockford, just from the Arkansas river, report the country overflowed, and that there is a great loss of property and suffering among the inhabitants Two hundred and seventy lives were lost at Helena, mostly Freedmen

A Nashville special dispatch reports that the suffering at Chattanooga and other places along the Tennessee river is appalling At Chattanooga on March 12th, the water was from twelve to twenty feet deep in the city Many of the houses were toppling over, while others were floating away The Mayor, with a posse of citizens and soldiers, were bringing among the loaded cars for food The agents of the railroad protested, but the Mayor said the people were starving Twenty-five dead bodies were seen floating down the river at Bridgeport, Alabama, on March 12th The loss of property is estimated at $1,000,000 General Carlin, at Nashville, is making efforts to send rations through to Chattanooga

Pacific M. S. S. Co. Again.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The World's Albany correspondent says that Francis Skiddy and other members of the P M S S Co have arrived to engineer the investigating committee The fact that these leaders came up here to control these appointments is regarded as a proof that something is rotten in the management of the company's affairs

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The resolution to investigate the affairs of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company passed the New York Assembly.

Seven thousand California seven were sold to-day at 118.

The Southern Relief Association announce that the total subscriptions in New York, including the proceeds of one theatrical benefit, amount to $28,000 Clergymen of all denominations throughout the Northern States are appealed to for collections on Sunday next.

HUDSON, N Y, March 14.—The river is open to this place. The first steamboat from New York has arrived

NEW YORK March 14.—The Journal of Commerce says the action of the Atlantic Cable Company, in refusing the reduction of rates, is probably based on the abandonment of the Russian line and a supposed continued enjoyment of monopoly They will find their mistake A stimulus has been given to the other for more feasible projects now on foot The Journal hopes that both the middle line to France and the Azores line will be pushed rapidly forward

A D Richardson, of the Tribune, was wounded last night by a pistol shot fired by Daniel McFarland, a well known lawyer while walking with the wife of the latter, who is an actress at the Winter Gardens Jealousy seems to be the cause of the assault McFarland fired three shots, one taking effect in the hip. Richardson declines to make any charge against McFarland, who has been liberated

A Fenian mass meeting was held at the City Hall this evening Several hundred were present and considerable spirit was manifested

RICHMOND, March 14.—Gen Schofield's order assuming command as military Governor of Virginia, gives entire satisfaction Political movements are in progress throughout the State. In several counties the popular voice had called for a convention under the Sherman bill

The Herald's correspondent says that Georgia is ready to accept the terms of the Sherman bill It is said that in nearly every Southern State the negro vote will undoubtedly be cast on the rebel side

CHICAGO March 15.—It is said that all the new Senators will vote for the admission of Colorado, and their votes will make more than two-thirds for the admission.

The rebel General Kirby Smith is a candidate for the Louisiana Marshalship

The N Y Times says by the steamer this week 2,000 barrels, 2016 sacks and 4022 packages of flour were added to the stock in market from California, while by sailing vessels the same day 17 405 sacks of wheat and flour, which is not as desirable for family use as some Eastern brands but is nevertheless of excellent quality. The Journal of Commerce says that California flour is in good demand at full rates and quotes sales of 900 barrels in sacks at prices last quoted The same paper says the reports from the Western States are promising in regard to the next wheat crops A large breadth of ground was sown to seed, which started well in the fall The heavy covering of snow throughout the winter was favorable

NEW YORK March 17.—The President sent to the Senate yesterday the nomination of William Thornburg as Surveyor General of Nevada

CHICAGO March 15.—A cable for submarine telegraph between Cuba and Florida is being rapidly constructed at London, and it is expected to be laid early in August next

NEW YORK March 15.—Great efforts are making in Louisiana and other Southern States to induce wholesale immigration from Germany to Louisiana and Texas The Emigration Bureau are alive and working The papers complain that hundreds of families from Germany who were preparing to settle in the South are turned North by the injurious representations of Western agents

The Journal of Commerce says the immigration from Germany to America this year is likely to be small The changes in local governments in the late war of Prussia is also detaining those who are liable to military service. Two steamers recently arrived at New York from which the baggage of many emigrants and the owners were taken off before their sailing

A D Richardson's assailant is to be re-arrested and tried for assault with intent to kill. Richardson's friends say that a rigid investigation will show that he was acting simply as a friendly protector against the uncontrollable husband against whom Mrs McFarland had instituted proceedings for separation on the ground of cruelty and refusal to provide for the family

General Benton Collector of Revenue at New Orleans, died yesterday

There is a prospect that the trial of Surratt will be postponed until the June term of the district court

(Washington Correspondence Boston Gazette.)

The General was dressed in full uniform, wearing his four gold stars with a deal more modesty than many Lieutenants present wore their one gold bar His face was as Sphynx-like as ever, and his manner was provokingly cool and self-possessed. One does not feel at ease in the presence of persons who are forever so unembarrassed and unembarrassable. Humanity is humanity, and I have a kindly feeling for my neighbor just as soon as I discover that I'm not alone in being weak and faulty It was a good thing to have such slow and well-regulated blood while you worked through the Wilderness and sat at the gates of Petersburg, General, but my soul was vexed with itself when I stood for a moment before you last evening.

Dear Mr Lincoln had the homeliest way a man ever had, I think, of taking your hand as you passed him in a great crowd at one of the levees, or receptions. There is something in General Grant's clasp that reminds me of Mr. Lincoln. The dead President, however, never noticed you —that is, during the last two or three years of his service He looked at you, probably, as you put your gloved hand into his hard, and large, and bony palm; but were you ever so vain, you could hardly flatter yourself with the idea that he saw you. His sad and patient eyes—the eyes of Marshall's portrait—looked backward; and when they seemed to rest upon you, they were really looking over the James river, or pleading that prayer so constantly in his heart, "Be near us, O God, and lead us in the right way." There is nothing tender in General Grant's eyes, unless you can find tenderness in truth and simplicity. The man is utterly without pretence. Society requires him to give two or three great parties every winter—his duty is a part of his religion, and so he stands in his parlor door and receives his guests as he did any necessary duty during the war. He is as undemonstrative as a marble man. Yet it was pleasant and comforting to notice that his thought was in the hand you just dared to touch He had a quick word for his personal friends—nothing on which you could hang a chat, for how can there be a chat unless at least two persons have free tongues? General Grant says his say and then stops—after that you can as easily talk to a stone wall. Notice him casually and carelessly, and you are likely to think that he never sees anything, stand and watch him carefully in a crowd for twenty minutes, and you'll conclude that those slow, and heavy, and half-shut eyes see everything He has that rare and precious faculty of seeing things without looking at them. Some men are born with it, to many others it comes with life on the frontier or in a new country.

HOW AN INNOCENT MAN WAS CONVICTED AND HUNG.—In the recent trial of the parties charged with the murder of Captain J F. Gruber, Mr. Tulty, one of the counsel for the defense, narrated the following.

The whole case was made up of circumstantial evidence of the loosest character, and to illustrate how guardedly even the best and strongest circumstantial evidence must be taken, he referred to a trial that took place in this very court about thirty years ago.

Judge Canonge then presided in the court, and Mr Mazureau was the Attorney General. There then lived on the bayou road a man about 25 or 30 years old He was not an educated nor a wealthy man, but he was honest and had a good heart. Having had a limb broken, he was very infirm in health. He made his livelihood by going to the Bayou St John every evening and catching fish to sell in the market the next morning One moonlight evening, while sitting on the bank of the bayou, fishing as usual, he saw a lady dressed in white in company with a gentleman, walking on the road beside the bayou. They were quarreling as they passed him, and his attention was attracted by hearing them quarrel.

After they passed he resumed his fishing, and waited until he had caught his usual supply He then started home with his basket As he reached the place known as the "Coquet" he heard a loud cry, and soon after a feeble cry. Advancing in the direction of the sound, he saw a woman in a white gown lying on the pavement, and coming to the woman, he perceived that a dagger had been stabbed into her bosom Thinking to relieve her, he took the dagger by the handle and drew it out As he did so, a watchman grasped him The woman was killed.

The poor fisherman was tried for the murder. The case was made out clearly against him He had been detected in the very act, bending over the body of the deceased with the weapon in his hand He was convicted, and was hung at Congo square About six months after, a trial was going on in Judge Canonge's Court A citizen called as a juror said he did not wish to be on the jury, and wished to speak a few words to the Judge The Judge allowed him a private conversation Supposing that he might have scruples about capital punishment, the Judge asked him if that was the reason he objected to being on the jury. "No," he answered, "that is not the reason I saw the fisherman hang for the murder of my wife He did not do it I killed her myself, from jealousy" The Judge sat petrified The man made for the door escaped, and he has never been heard of since.—Atlantic (Ga) Intelligencer

Sheep Husbandry.

On this subject the Walla Walla Statesman has the following article

As paving the way to the erection of a woolen factory, an enterprise, which, by the way, is only a question of time, our farmers should give increased attention to the raising of sheep and wool In England sheep raising is the foundation of much of the wealth of which the country boasts, and a similar attention to the growth of sheep in this valley would be equally well rewarded. The present depression of business interests in this immediate section, is mainly due to the fact that our productions have not been sufficiently diversified The demand for wheat has fell off, and that being our one great staple, all branches of industry suffer Had a portion of our means been invested in raising sheep, and with these a woolen factory, we should have had a source of prosperity that would measurably have compensated for the stagnation in the grain market. It is estimated by a correspondent that the woolen factory in Oregon City is the means of distributing $6,000 monthly in that immediate locality, and to that extent serves to ward off "dull times" A similar establishment at Walla Walla would be attended with the same results, and certainly it speaks little for our enterprise that we are so slow in seizing this source of wealth. The year just closed witnessed a material decline in the demand for surplus breadstuffs, and we have no certainty that the year which we are entering will show a material improvement in this regard. Our hope then, is in diversified productions, and we can only to repeat what we have before urged, our farmers must produce less wheat, and give increased attention to the products of the dairy and the rearing of sheep. Those communities are most prosperous when commerce, agriculture and manufactures are equally fostered, and are less liable to depression than communities where one branch of industry is followed to the exclusion of all others. Take the world over, it will be found that exclusively agricultural communities are poor, whilst those who enjoy the advantages of diversified industry are uniformly prosperous. Discussing this question of sheep raising, a cotemporary says, that if farmers generally would raise sheep, as a steady and permanent portion of their business, by and by they would see the benefit not only to themselves but to the community at large. Good wool will always be in demand, and so will mutton. Concerning the respective value of the various breeds of sheep for this region, it would be well if some of our experienced and intelligent sheep raisers would present the Statesman the experience and the conclusions they have arrived at. The relative value of long and short wools and coarse wools and fine wools is yet a vexed question in the States, and can hardly be considered satisfactorily settled here. And if settled, the public might like to know it and how. All things considered, probably the best representatives of the Down family would be the best for this region, but experience in this matter is the only safe guide. One thing can be asserted without much fear of contradiction that it would be well for every large sheep owner where many sheep are not kept, for several persons to combine and procure a full blooded buck of the breed deemed most suitable, while the best ewes of that breed should be chosen. It is an established fact that grade stock, from a thorough bred, as a general thing, is an improvement on the common stock. Let us raise the sheep and the mutton and the wool, make the woolen clothing of all desirable kinds, in our own production, and then we shall be helping each other to live and enjoy life.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 16, 1867.

Then and Now.

The recent legislation of Congress has caused a renewal in certain quarters of the old cry that the Government is destroyed, and that "consolidation" is at last accomplished. These are favorite [illegible] of speech with those who are using them. It was the opinion of these persons that the Government was destroyed when, in 1861, it took [illegible] to enforce its authority in "eleven sovereign States." Again, they thought it destroyed [illegible] it abolished slavery. If they ask us to believe their assertions, we must in return require [illegible] to allow that the Government has extraordinary vitality, for they have declared it destroyed on countless occasions within the last six years, and it is pretty certain that it still has an existence.

On the subject of "consolidation" these croakers are even more persistent. Their party began [illegible] about this thing as early as 1793, and has kept it up without intermission ever since. During Washington's Administration, they denounced him and his measures quite as vehemently as they now denounce the measures of Congress. The [illegible] of Washington's Administration, in [illegible]ton, was toward "consolidation," and [illegible] as much alarmed at his "usurpation" [illegible] the Pennsylvania rebellion, as they [illegible] at the efforts of Congress to bring about [illegible] restoration of the Union on the basis of loyalty. But notwithstanding that the mere mention of the word "consolidation" fills so many minds [illegible], we beg, with humble submission, [illegible] that it is not so terrible a word after [illegible]. Washington was not alarmed by it; but [illegible]ton was not a timid man. In a letter [illegible] by him shortly after the formation of the [illegible], he said the "greatest interest of every [illegible] was the consolidation of the American Union, in which is involved our prosperity, [illegible] safety, perhaps our national existence." [illegible] quite a difference between this opinion [illegible] of some modern politicians. Consolidation was then the [illegible] end to be attained. Con[illegible] is now the frightful phantom which [illegible] the minds of a large class of men who [illegible] boast of their exalted patriotism.

A New Remedy.

[illegible]ingham, the great prophet of Democracy, [illegible] a new role. Though he has long been [illegible], he has employed his time in meditation [illegible] hit on any plan to reverse the [illegible] of parties and bring himself and his [illegible]ment. He thinks he has found it at [illegible] financial crisis is the remedy he invokes. [illegible] letter which his organs at the East have [illegible], he says: "I am not sure that a [illegible] standing in the way of finance might not [illegible] salvation." So Buchanan's ministers thought in 1860. They sup[illegible] standing in the way of [illegible] the Government and prove [illegible] of the rebel cause. Hence before [illegible] out of office they stripped the Government of its resources, stole its money, dispersed [illegible] and left it defenceless. But this [illegible] did not prove the salvation of the [illegible]. So the remedial measure Vallandigham now [illegible] would also fail. In 1860-61 [illegible] that the true remedy was to divide the [illegible] four Governments. He now thinks [illegible] crisis the best thing. Of course [illegible] followers would willingly involve the [illegible] in this terrible embarrassment if thereby [illegible] accomplish a partisan object.

[illegible] in Public Men.—They have a [illegible] Temperance Society at Washington, [illegible], Yates, and some others who may [illegible] to need the influence which are ex[illegible] "total evasion," not long ago joined it. [illegible] a day or two after, however, Saulsbury entered the Senate Chamber in a state of disgusting [illegible] so it may be supposed that whoever [illegible], he has not. That inebriety is [illegible] among men in high [illegible] the Capital, is a fact well known. [illegible] class of men who are under stronger [illegible] than others to observe the [illegible] of temperance, that class is those [illegible] with the interests of the country [illegible] whose duty it is to look solely to its welfare. [illegible] is that our public men ought [illegible] of sobriety, and that habits of this [illegible] favorable to a proper performance of [illegible] people have a right to expect that [illegible] who hold important public interests in their [illegible] disqualify themselves for performing [illegible] by habitual, or even occasional inebriety. The same remarks will apply to all who [illegible] public interests, great or small. All [illegible] are public servants, whose best [illegible] in the discharge of their duties, the people [illegible] to demand. Whether the Congressional [illegible] Society is flourishing, we are [illegible], but that it ought to flourish while [illegible] of such an association, all will agree.

[illegible] Powers of Government.—In discussing this subject, the New York Herald [illegible]:

"[illegible] is a political trinity of distinct [illegible] legislative, judicial, and [illegible]. But while these three elements form [illegible] the Government, they are not co[illegible] power. It is very evident that the National [illegible], representing the supreme will [illegible] the fountain of all authority, can [illegible] the Executive. It is equally [illegible] representatives of the people have [illegible] to repeal the law by which the [illegible] Court is at present organized, and can [illegible] as they please. Hence the legislative [illegible] to the others, and, in case of [illegible] use that superiority and crush all [illegible]. The limits of each element are defined [illegible], so that if the executive do [illegible] to the legislative branch it [illegible] of the powers and functions of the [illegible] when Mr. Johnson undertook [illegible] the Southern States lately in arms [illegible] the Federal Government to send representatives to Congress, he transcended the limits of [illegible], for to Congress belonged the power [illegible] whether those States were or were not [illegible] to be re-admitted to the national [illegible]."

[illegible] the Herald has pursued a most incon[illegible] in politics, its views on this subject [illegible] correct. Nothing could be clearer [illegible] the facts above stated.

[illegible]ward Stroke.—Some of our Democratic [illegible] have lately been very free in their exhortations to all good men and true to "resist" in certain [illegible] agencies, which they say are sure to [illegible]. Hon. James Brooks, of New York, has [illegible] conspicuous for the use of this sort of [illegible], and his very bellicose language at the recent convention in Connecticut has called out [illegible] Southern paper—the Macon Journal and Messenger—the following response, which gives Mr. Brooks and his friends a hint of which they [illegible] in need:

"[illegible] may be a good practice in so reckless [illegible] as is now going on; but we beg leave to [illegible] that if there's going to be any more fighting on this side of the Potomac, we must turn it over to the Northern brethren exclusively, and be [illegible] out. There's so many of them, that only [illegible] proportion were able to take a hand in the war of the rebellion, and it is not wonderful, therefore, that they should be spoiling for another op[illegible]. Not so with the people on this side of the Potomac. Every man who wanted to fight was provided with the fullest opportunity for the [illegible] of his appetite, and the result is we want no — as just now. We had much rather [illegible] corn, meat, cotton, and do what we can to repair our dilapidated fortunes, than take a hand in any new revolution."

[illegible], one day last week, Rev. John Flinn fell [illegible] of his ribs. He is recovering slowly. [illegible]

The Mails.

The Walla Walla Statesman of the 8th inst. says:

The mails are now running with great regularity, and we hear of but few complaints of the carelessness of Postmasters. Occasionally packages designed either for Umatilla or Wallula are allowed to pass the points of destination, but even these are of less frequent occurrence than formerly. With the utmost care mistakes will occasionally happen in the distribution of postal matter, and hence we are disposed to make allowances for the short-comings of Postmasters. As a matter of general interest, we give the hours for the closing and the arrival of the mails. For Portland, closes daily at 8 A. M., except Sunday, and arrives daily, at about 4 P. M. The Salt Lake and Boise mail closes daily at 8½ P. M., and arrives daily, between 5 and 6 P. M. As already stated, the mails arrive with great regularity, and certainly we have never known a time when our people had so little occasion to complain of their postal facilities.

The mail has been running for some time from Salt Lake to the Dalles under the new contract; yet we cannot learn that this arrangement is any essential advantage to this part of Oregon. Salt Lake City is made a distributing point for the mails, yet letters destined here make the rounds by Sacramento just as formerly. It was expected that by the establishment of a direct route from Salt Lake through Idaho and Eastern Oregon, we would be supplied at least a week sooner than by the old route. Nor is there any reason why we should not be, if our mails were sent promptly through direct from Salt Lake. We hope this will be done. Probably no order to that effect has yet been sent to the Salt Lake office. The matter ought to receive attention at Washington. It is of more importance to us now, as it may not be certain that the present daily line to California will be continued for any great length of time.

A correspondent of the New York Herald writing from Nashville says that there will not be a "conservative" in the delegation from Tennessee to the Fortieth Congress. The writer adds: "Men of means and influence may talk as much as they please about controlling the votes of their 'niggers,' but there is hardly anything more certain than that there would not be more than one colored voter in ten who could not be relied upon to go the square radical ticket. They have yet a very lively recollection of the party who set them free, and ingratitude forms no part of the colored man's nature. After a time, when the complexion of political factions will have been changed, suggesting pre-rebellion party lines, the negroes will probably be divided after the fashion of the whites."

Marriage of the Aztec Children.—The Aztec children, who were exhibited in New York a few years ago, were married in London recently, under the direction of their manager, Mr. Morris. An English paper says:

He has brought them over for the purpose of having them joined in holy wedlock, they now being both of marriageable age; and accordingly the legal ceremony was performed on Monday morning, by the Registrar, in the vestry room of St. George's, Hanover Square, London. In order to give all proper eclat to the wedding, the preparation of the bride's trousseau was intrusted to the house of Howell & James, in Regent street.

The dress was of the richest white satin, trimmed with the costliest of lace, and the jewels of the purest water. The little lady seemed to be absolutely enchanted with her sparkling necklace, her solitaire earrings, and her bracelets of emeralds and brilliants. It is said that this trousseau cost close upon £2,000. The bridegroom wore a plain evening dress, but was most demonstrative in his examination and exhibition of a splendid gold watch with which he had been presented for the interesting occasion.

During the ceremony he deported himself most judiciously—for a bridegroom, examined the certificate which the registrar handed to him at its conclusion, most carefully, and then, with much impressiveness, presented the bride with her "marriage lines."

They are both much grown since their last visit to this country, but still far below, either in stature or bulk, anything else that we have seen in the shape of either savage or civilized humanity. Their heads are not bigger than would be that of an English child of a month old, and their figures are in proportion. The female is well formed, and has not an unpleasant countenance, but the man is a most extraordinary looking individual. After the marriage ceremony the bride, bridegroom and a party of their friends, adjourned to Willis's Rooms, King street, St. James, for the wedding breakfast, when some appropriate speeches were made, and all sorts of good wishes were expressed for the interesting couple.

Results of Reformatory Schools in England.—At the last quarter sessions for Surrey the chairman, Mr. Tilson, said he was happy to see a very light calendar, there being only 36 prisoners for trial, and these for slight offenses. For the last three years, he said, there has been considerable diminution of crime, which was chiefly due to the establishment of successful reformatory institutions. Mr. Tilson added:

"Eighty per cent. of the lads committed to these institutions came out well and prospered, and a very few relapsed into their old habits. An act had been passed during last year, establishing industrial schools in the kingdom, and he had the pleasure of saying that, with recent alterations, that act now worked very well. It had been said by police magistrates that they had no industrial school in this county. Such was the fact, but he had to inform the court that a committee of magistrates had been formed for that purpose, and in a very short time industrial schools would be in working order in the county of Surrey, and they would be able to receive 100 or 150 boys."

What May Be.—In 1815, Elkana Watson, Benjamin Franklin's friend, predicted that in 1900 the population of the United States would be 100,000,000. Assuming this to be the case, that in 1870, our population will number 42,000,000, in 1880, 56,000,000, and so on to the end of the century, we can form some idea of the great development which awaits trade and commerce upon this side of the Atlantic. There is, in fact, no limit to which our commercial ramifications can be extended, and wise legislation, the removal of restrictions upon trade, and a regard for natural laws, will soon make us the greatest commercial nation upon the globe. A Western gentleman facetiously remarked at a New York banquet, a few days since, in a speech glorifying the Northwest, that Paris, London, and Vienna would eventually be compelled to come to the city of Lawrence, Kansas, to obtain their fashion plates. It is not too much to predict, however, that our commercial relations and influences will in time exercise a controlling influence over the entire world.

Elegant Uniforms.—The importance of a due regard to personal cleanliness cannot be more forcibly stated than in the words of that brilliant revolutionary officer, Gen. Wayne, in his correspondence with Washington preparatory to the attack on Stony Point. He appeals to the Commander-in-Chief for a supply of clothing, and speaks of uniformity in dress as infusing a laudable pride and emulation which, in a soldier, is a substitute for almost every other virtue; and he adds: "I must acknowledge that I have a prejudice in favor of an elegant uniform and soldierly appearance, so much so that I would much rather risk my life and reputation at the head of the same men in an attack, clothed and equipped as I could wish, with a single charge of ammunition, than to take them as they appear in common, with sixty rounds of cartridges." This strong language might seem extravagant, had not Washington in his reply said: "I agree perfectly with you as to the importance of dress."

After receiving his pardon, ex-Governor T. O. Moore, of Louisiana, visited his plantation the first time for several years. While riding over the grounds, and when passing the site of his once large sugar house, he startled three deer, which were lying in their beds in apparent security. In 1860 there were few more highly cultivated and productive estates than Governor Moore's. His income from sugar and cotton alone, exceeded $100,000 a year. Nothing is left of this splendid estate but the land and the charred and blackened ruins of the once elegant, spacious and comfortable buildings. We hope the contemplation of the results of the wicked rebellion this same man Moore did his best to bring about, proved a wholesome lesson to him.

Perry Davis' Pain Killer is really a valuable medicament, and unlike most of the patented articles of the day, is used by many physicians. It is particularly desirable in locations where physicians are not near, and in families will often save the [illegible] of sending out at midnight for a doctor. A bottle should be kept in every [illegible] Davis [illegible]. fe15dawlm

CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000!

Directors:

JOHN PARROTT,	CHAS. E. McLANE,
LOUIS A. GARNETT.

LOUIS A. GARNETT............President and Manager.
JOHN HEWSTON, Jr.......Chemist and Superintendent.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the minting and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent. (heretofore a quarter) for all amounts over $1,600, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,600, and one-eighth of one per cent. for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent. on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce.

On bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.

On bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.

On bullion from 750½@949½ parts gold 8 cents per ounce.

Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution. But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us.

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates.

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express.

CHARGES AT U. S. BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution:

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 300½@600 parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 600½@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 750½@830 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 830½@949½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce.

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent., and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same.

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have post ⅛ of one per cent.—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

850 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

845 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

865 par to equal San Francisco A. & R. Works return, at refining charge of 8 cents. mh1d2pim

WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

OREGONIAN is published this morning It the latest telegraphic news from the East and a selection of the best articles appearing in OREGONIAN,—full and reliable news from the and the most copious commercial information pub any paper in the State amount of reading matter in the WEEKLY is double that published by any other journal and in the particular of Commercial statistics Markets we aim to make it the most reliable in matters pertaining to Oregon interests copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year to any United States, or British Columbia

The last Walla Walla Statesman complains in that market and that it is difficult a good article at any price. The Portland has been for two or three months overstocked from the country have found it difficult to us that a limited shipment of a good ar would bring profitable returns.

A TRIBUTARY TO SAN FRANCISCO.—It is a fact to us that the people and the press of Oregon the advantage to that State of their putting in favor of railroad communication with road by way of the Columbia and Instead of discussing the subject and at throw some of its advantages into view they or mention it only to condemn and while the press engages in a jealous rivalry the things they can say in favor of the Port road, which, when built must only make not only Portland but the whole State great measure to the wealth and power of —Boise Statesman.

poraries will insist that railroad connection will make us tributary to the 'wealth of San Francisco, then all we have to say is, anxious to become a "tributary" as soon as we could have no possible objection to be to the Eastern States, in the same way by quick transportation with a rich is just what we want, we think there a chance of getting some tribute the way of development, improvement and is not afraid of being a tributary If were a hundred times more wealthy and present, there would be still greater railroad connection with her We it would not materially advance our interests to Tillamook or Shoalwater Bay Those and furnish us a market or send us any of "tribute to San Francisco" is in the world—it is played out But at we must say, in contradiction of the States have yet to see or hear the first word of by the Oregon press, of the railroad scheme with the mining Territories and the great of Oregon has intelligence enough to to commercial wealth and power, to the tributary. Oregon is ready to in that way just as soon as the necessary be made. Trot out your railroads, gen our "tribute" as soon as you please.

—From the Register we have the County Woolen Manufacturing Company' of a company which filed their ar in the Auditor's office of Clarke 11th. COMMUNICATIONS

A communication was received from Edward Russell Cashier of the Bank of British Columbia asking the Council to provide for the redemption of a warrant issued by order of the Council and held by the bank amounting to $670 together with the payment of interest on the same.

On motion of Mr Lowndale the communication was referred to the Judiciary Committee and the City Attorney with instructions to report whether the Council has authority to order the payment of interest on warrants drawn against the City Treasury

A remonstrance against the lease of the foot of Alder street was received from C M Carter and W S Ladd Referred to the committee on Landings and Wharves

A petition was received from Messrs Goodenough & Clark for the use of one-half of Alder street opposite lot four in block sixteen for building purposes Granted

A petition was received from Thomas Cully for permission to use a portion of 3d street for building purposes Granted

A notice was received from the proper officers of Vigilance H & L Co, that a committee of the Company had been appointed to ask the Council to order the purchase of an alarm bell for the Company Referred to the Committee on Fire and Water

A petition was received from Capt A Dodge, asking for the use of the city's submarine armor to be used in ascertaining the position of the sunken brig between O and D streets Referred to the Committee on River Improvements

The following communication was received from H L Hoyt, City Marshal.

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Portland—GENTLEMEN The police regulations of the city have occupied your attention to a considerable extent, recently being brought before you frequently in the messages of his Honor the Mayor and in reports of committees Discussion upon the subject has been directed chiefly to its financial aspects; and in this regard it is at present the vexed question of our municipal government In view of the importance of this subject to the citizens in general, and considering the attention it has received and is receiving from your Honorable body I trust you will not deem it a trespass upon your time if I offer for your consideration a few suggestions derived from my own experience and observations in connection with the police of this city

The principal source of dissatisfaction and cause of complaint seems to be, that the city pays stated salaries to two deputy marshals or policemen, while the Marshal receives the fees for arrests made by those officers And it is to this feature of the system that these suggestions are addressed

The duties of the Marshal are not confined to the matter of arresting offenders Indeed this is but a small portion of what he is expected to do He is required to supervise all matters connected in any manner with the police department, to exercise a watchful care over the health, cleanliness peace and good order of the city, and see that all ordinances relating thereto are duly observed and to prosecute all persons guilty of violating ordinances of the city His duties, aside from those of an ordinary policeman, are more arduous than those of any other city officer, excepting perhaps, the Recorder, and in addition to this he is expected to perform the ordinary duties of a policeman This is certainly more than any one man can do, and your Honorable body have therefore seen proper to employ two men to assist the Marshal, paying them stated wages therefor, while the Marshal receives the fees for arrests made by them. It is for this that complaint is made Let it be remembered that for all the extra services of the Marshal, to which allusion has been made above, no pay whatever is allowed, either in fees or otherwise nor does the Marshal receive any salary, but is wholly dependent upon the usual fees growing out of arrests for remuneration for his services, both as ordinary policeman and as Chief of Police. Now since his duties as Chief of Police, as distinguished from ordinary police duties render it utterly impossible for the Marshal to devote a great portion of his time to the matter of arresting offenders, where is he to get pay for his services unless he receive the fees for arrests made by under officers, all of whom are paid by the city or by subscription? Nor is this system unprecedented or unusual It prevails in a neighboring city, where over a score of policemen are employed, and the Marshal receives as his fees of office, a stated sum for every arrest made by this large body of men. There are, also, officers of this State who receive, in addition to their fees, a stated salary; and this is right whenever the fees allowed by law would be insufficient to remunerate them for their services Thus we have in the department of the city government which is necessarily entrusted to the supervision and control of the Marshal, labor enough to keep a number of men constantly employed, except for an occasional brief period of unusual quietness and good order; and only so small an amount of this service commands fees, that to trust in this mode of compensation would render the support of the police system wholly impracticable That no one man, nor any two men, can perform all that is necessary to be done in the police department of this city, is not subject to question, and no reasonably intelligent man in the city would ever think of seriously discussing the point. Now, suppose the Marshal receives no fees except for arrests made by himself, and the subordinate officers receive the fees for arrests made by themselves, and have no salaries; how would that system work? Your police would in a short time become a ridiculous farce, without order, efficiency or energy If a policeman were friendly to the Marshal, bribery and corrupt dealing between them and offenders would let crime go unwhipped of justice, whenever it might happen, as it sometimes inevitably will happen, that men shall fill such stations who are wanting in moral principle or if unfriendly, we should have the spectacle, not less disgraceful than unnatural, of a race between the chief and his subordinates, for the arrest of every poor drunken wight and perchance a squabble over the prone carcass of the culprit Or when the duties of the chief called him to his office, as they do a large portion of his time a kind hearted subordinate might graciously exchange situations with him for a brief period, in order that the Marshal might go out and pick up a case, and thus get the fees of an arrest thus reversing the natural order of things, making the chief deputy and the deputy chief

Such a system would not only destroy the efficiency of the police force, but would manifestly work great injustice Suppose it is found necessary to have six policemen this increase of force renders the duties of the chief proportionately more burdensome, could he in such case make as many arrests as each of his subordinates he would get only as much pay or one-sixth of the aggregate fees for arrests actually made; while his labor would be made greater than that of any other member of the police corps But the performance of extra duty would render it impossible for him to make as many arrests as other policemen So that while doing his full share of the labor, and bearing the additional burden of responsibility incident to his position, he would actually receive far less compensation than any of his subordinates Under such a system it would require but a short time for your police to degenerate into a mob affording no protection to life or property

But the great and fundamental error in the discussion of this subject hitherto, is the hypothesis that a policeman renders no service to the city, except when he arrests an offender against the laws It would follow from such an idea that the subordinates work solely for the benefit of the chief and the chief for himself alone

Such is not the truth, as has already been shown The making of arrests is the simplest, if not the smallest branch of police business and to measure the efficiency of the Marshal by the number of arrests he makes is palpably absurd The efficiency of police should be measured by its salutary effect in preventing crime by its influence upon the moral tone of community; by the restraint it places upon evil doers and the security it affords to person and property; by the degree of certainty it gives that crime, when committed, will be detected and the criminal will not go unwhipped of justice These things are all to be taken into consideration for it may sometimes occur that a large number of arrests are to be made, simply from want of an efficient and faithful police force to intimidate the evil minded, and thus prevent crime from being perpetrated

It can scarcely be supposed that the tax payers of the city care who makes arrests, so long as such services are well performed The whole matter may be summed up in a sentence The police of the city requires the services of a number of men more than the regular fees will support, and therefore additional compensation must be given, to some of the force from the city treasury

I am not partial to the present system In my opinion this city ought to have six or ten policemen and a Chief all receiving a stated salary and the fees for arrests all accrued to the city In any case, the Chief of Police will have to be paid a stated salary or else receive certain fees for every arrest Both these plans are practicable Some cities on this coast adopt the former and some prefer the latter

But if your Honorable body should deem it expedient to change the present system essentially it cannot be done in a day Nothing is begun and perfected at once The adoption of the system of paying a stated sum to all the police force would necessitate the revision of most of the city ordinances relating to the subject and might require an amendment of the charter Yet I am satisfied that if any change be made, this plan would give better satisfaction and involve less financial difficulty than any other

Very respectfully your obd t serv t,
H L HOYT City Marshal

A BEAUTIFUL PIECE OF EMBROIDERY.—At the store of Mr Shanahan on First street, we noticed a day or two since, a specimen of worsted embroidery worked by Miss Kate Hayes of this city which, for finish and beauty quite eclipses any of the prize pieces we remember to have seen at any of the State fairs. It is a boquet of full blown roses and violets raised so as to appear in full relief and in the natural colors of those favorite flowers The leaves are worked with beads in such manner as to present the appearance of being refreshingly laden with dew Mr Shanahan has set it beautifully in an oval, gilt frame which, together with the picture, makes a rare piece of art and an ornament that one might well covet.

DAVIS' COMBINED REAPER AND MOWER.—This is an Oregon invention which, last year proved very successful and is likely to come into pretty general use We see it stated that a farmer of Walla Walla valley, having seen the machine work, will procure one of them for use in his neighborhood the coming season It will cost him about $1,000 delivered at Walla Walla Cutting about twenty acres per day—the capacity of the machine—it will pay for itself in a single season

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—Arrived per Alert, Friday, March 15th 1,027 qr sks flour, 7 boxes produce, 4 hlf bbls do, 31 cases lard 296 sks bacon, 2 sks screenings, 227 sks feed, 1 000 ft flooring, 162 boxes apples, 33 sks wheat, 1 case woolen goods, 1 keg

SPRAGUE'S BENEFIT.—Mr Sprague of the Tanner Troupe, will receive a complimentary benefit to-night. A splendid bill will be offered In fancy dances and female negro characters Mr Sprague is the best actor ever here We hope to see him favored with a full house

FROM TILLAMOOK.—A letter from Captain Quick of the schooner Champion, announces that the vessel will sail for Portland in a few days, laden with hay

FOUND.—The watch stolen from Jerry Driscoll, on board the Alert was found last night, where the thief had probably placed it The chain is missing

THE GENUINE MATERIAL.—When the weather is snapping cold almost anybody can sell clothing of almost any quality but Barman Bros. sell their's in all weathers, because their stock is made up of genuine, first-class material People know this, and when a good suit is wanted they go to Barman's

For coughs, colds and throat disorders use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years. The Troches are highly recommended and prescribed by physicians and surgeons in the army Those exposed to sudden changes should always be supplied with "The Troches" as they give prompt relief

The man who said the Family Dye Colors manufactured by Howe & Stevens were the greatest discovery of the age, for domestic use, hit the nail on the head precisely By the same line of statement, Messrs Howe & Stevens are among the greatest benefactors of the day The great public evidently believe in the colors, for they are to be found in about every well regulated household in the country Sold by Smith & Davis

Do not let your prejudice stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be absolutely sure to follow the use of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves wind colic, regulates the bowels, softens the gums gives rest to the mother, and health to the child. The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of all consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice

Too Much Blue.

Early on a fine summer morning, an old man was walking on the road between Brussels and Namur. He expected a friend to arrive by the diligence, and he set out some time before it was due, to meet it on the road Having a good deal of time to spare, he amused himself by watching any object of interest that caught his eye and at length stopped to inspect the operations of a painter, who, mounted on a ladder placed against the front of a wayside inn, was busily employed in depicting a sign suitable to its name, "The Rising Sun."

"Here," said the old man to himself, "is an honest dauber, who knows as much of perspective as a cart-horse, and who, I'll warrant, fancies himself a Rubens How he brushes in that ultramarine sky!"

The critic commenced walking backward and forward before the inn, thinking that he might as well loiter there for the diligence as walk on farther. The painter, meantime, continued to lay on fresh coats of the brightest blue, which appeared to aggravate the old gentleman very much At length, when the sign painter took another brush full of blue paint to plaster on, the spectator could endure it no longer, and exclaimed so severely:

"Too much blue!"

The honest painter looked down from his perch, and said, in that tone of forced calmness which an angry man sometimes assumes

"Monsieur does not perceive that I am painting a sky?"

"O, yes, I see very well, you are trying to paint a sky, but I tell you there is too much blue!"

"Did you ever see skies painted without blue, Master amateur?"

"I am not an amateur I merely tell you in passing—I make the casual remark—that there is too much blue; but do as you like Put more blue, if you don't think you have troweled on enough already."

"But I tell you, that I want to represent a clear blue sky at sunrise."

"And I tell you that no man in his senses would paint a sky at sunrise blue."

"By Saint Gudule, this is too much!" said the painter, coming down from his ladder, at no pains this time to conceal his anger, "I should like to see how you would paint a sky without blue!"

"I don't pretend to much skill in sky painting, but if I were to make a trial, I wouldn't put in too much blue."

"And what would it look like if you didn't?"

"Like nature, I hope, and not like yours, which might be taken for a bed of gentianella, or a sample of English cloth, or anything you please—except a sky; I beg to assure you, for the tenth time, there is too much blue!"

"I tell you what, old gentleman," cried the incensed painter, crossing his maul-stick over his shoulder, and looking very fierce, "I dare say you are a worthy fellow when you are at home, but you should not be let out alone."

"Why not?"

"Why not?" Because you must be crazy to play the critic after this fashion; too much blue, indeed! What, I, the pupil of Ruysdael, the second cousin of Gerard Douw's great grandson, not knowing how to color a sky? Know that my reputation has been long established. I have a Red Horse at Malines, a Green Bear at Namur, a [illegible] at Aix-la-Chapelle, before which every passenger stops fixed in admiration!"

"[illegible]!" exclaimed the critic, as he snatched the palette, from the painter's hand. "You deserve to have your own portrait painted to serve for the sign of the Flemish Ass!" In his indignation he mounted the ladder with the activity of a lad, and began with the palm of his hand to efface the sky d'azure of Gerard Douw's great grandchild's third cousin."

"[illegible] you old charlatan!" shouted the latter, "you are ruining my sign! Why, it's worth [illegible] francs. And then my reputation—lost! [illegible]!"

He shook the ladder violently to make his persecutor descend But the latter, undisturbed either by this or by the presence of a crowd of [illegible], attracted by the dispute, continued mercilessly to blot out the landscape. Then, using the point of his finger and the handle of a brush, he sketched, in masterly outline, three [illegible] boors, with beer glasses in their hands, looking to the rising sun; which appeared above the horizon, dispersing the gloom of a grayish morning sky. One of the faces presented a strong and laughable caricature of the supplanted sign-painter. The spectators at first were greatly disposed to take sides with their countryman against the intrusive stranger. What right had he to interfere? There was no end to the impertinence of the foreigner!

However, they watched and grumbled, the grumbling gradually ceased, and was turned into a murmur of approbation when the design became apparent. The owner of the inn was the first to cry "Bravo!" and even Gerard Douw's cousin three times removed, felt his fury calming down into admiration.

"Oh!" he exclaimed, "you belong to the craft, [illegible] and there's no use in denying it [illegible] you," he continued, laughing, as he turned toward his neighbors, "this is a French sign-painter, who wishes to have a jest with me. Well, I can frankly say that he knows what he is about."

The old man was about to descend the ladder, when a gentleman riding a beautiful English horse made his way through the crowd.

"That painting is mine!" he exclaimed in French, but with a foreign accent. "I will give a hundred guineas for it!"

"Another madman!" exclaimed the native [illegible] "Hang me, but all these foreigners are mad."

"What do you mean, monsieur?" said the innkeeper, uncommonly interested.

"What I say,—I will give one hundred guineas for that painting," answered the young Englishman, getting off his horse.

"That picture is not to be sold," said the sign-painter, with an air of as much pride as if it had been his own work.

"No," quoth mine host, "for it is already sold, and even partly paid for in advance. However, if monsieur wishes to come to an arrangement about it, it is with me that he must treat."

"Not at all, not at all," rejoined the French painter of signs, "it belongs to me. My fellow-artist here gave me a little help out of friendship; but the picture is my lawful property, and I am at liberty to sell it to any one I please."

"What roguery!" exclaimed the innkeeper. "The Rising Sun is my property; fastened on the walls of my house. How can it belong to any body else. Isn't it painted on my board. No one but myself has the smallest right to it."

"I'll summon you before the magistrate!" cried [illegible] who had not painted the sign.

"I'll prosecute you for a breach of covenant," shouted the innkeeper, who had already half paid for it.

"One moment," interposed another energetic voice, that of the interloper, "it seems to me that I ought to have some little vote in the business"

"Quite right, brother," answered the painter "Instead of disputing on the public road, let us go into Master Martzen's house, and arrange the matter amicably over a bottle of beer."

To this all parties agreed, but I am sorry to say they agreed to nothing else; for within doors, the dispute was carried on with deafening confusion and energy. The Flemings contended for the possession of the painting, and the Englishman repeated his offer.

"But suppose that I don't choose to have it sold?" said the author.

"Oh, my dear Monsieur," said the innkeeper, "I am certain you would not wish to deprive an honest poor man, who can scarcely make both ends meet, of this windfall. Why, it would just enable me to lay in a good stock of wine and beer."

"Don't believe him, brother!" said the painter, "he is an old miser. I am the father of a family; and being a painter, you ought to help a brother artist, and give me the preference Besides, I am ready to share the money with you"

"He!" said Mr. Martzen. "Why, he's an old spendthrift, who has no money left to give his daughter as a marriage portion, because he spends all he gets on himself"

"No such thing, my Susette is betrothed to an honest young French cabinet-maker, who, poor as she is, will marry her next September"

"A daughter to portion!" exclaimed the stranger artist; that quite alters the case I am content that the picture should be sold for a marriage portion. I leave it to our English friend's generosity to fix the sum"

"I have already offered," replied the best bidder, "one hundred guineas for the sketch just as it is; I will gladly give two hundred for it if the painter will consent to sign it in the corner with two words."

"What words?" exclaimed the disputants at once.

The Englishman replied

"PIERRE DAVID!"

The whole party were quite dumb now, they were struck dumb with astonishment. The sign painter held his breath, with glared eyes frantically clasped his hands together, and fell down on his knees before the great French painter

"Forgive me!" he exclaimed, "forgive me for my audacious ignorance!"

David laughed heartily, and, taking his hand, shook it with fraternal cordiality.

By this time the news of the discovery had spread; the tavern was crowded with persons anxious to drink the health of the celebrated visitor, and the good old man standing in the middle of the room pledged them heartily. In the midst of the merry-making the sign-painter's daughter, the pretty Susette, threw her arms round her benefactor's neck.

A New York Bride in a Scrape.

About four weeks ago a young gentleman, who gave his name as Nye, appeared at the boarding house of Mr. Park, on C street, between Second and Third streets, with a young lady who he represented as his wife, and asked to see the rooms The keeper of the house showed the pair several rooms, and finally they chose the back parlor, into which the young man had a piano placed for the lady and soon they were living quite comfortably The young man, as also the lady informed the other occupants of the house that they had recently been married and that he being a mail agent, couldn't be home during the day He appeared to be very regular in his habits and was at home evenings and in a short time they were looked upon by their fellow boarders as quite an acquisition Christmas times came and the couple mixed with the others in the amusements gotten up in the house, and seemed to enjoy the fun amazingly but on New Year's eve there came a change The occupants of the house had all retired about 10 o'clock, not feeling inclined "to watch the New Year in"—but were destined to have precious little sleep About 11 o clock the jingling of the door bell awoke some of the occupants, and the servant found at the door a stout middle-aged lady accompanied by an able bodied young man They informed the servant that the lady was the mother and the gentleman the brother of Mrs Nye, who they wished to see, and asked which was the room of the couple The servant designated the room in question and started up stairs, but had not gone many steps before screams of "murder" from the room awoke the house The proprietor, Mr Park, sprang out of bed and hastily attempted to change his night shirt for thicker apparel but the frequency of the cries and the din from the room induced him to disregard all laws of etiquette, and down stairs he went to the room in question followed by some of the boarders Here they found that Mr and Mrs Nye had been hauled from bed, the former by the big brother and the latter by the mother of the lady The young man was walking into Mr N with a stout stick, which he used mostly on his victim's head, and he finding discretion the better part of valor, made a break for the window, carrying the greater portion of the window sash with him and took refuge in the stable While this was going on the mother had her daughter over her knee and was applying raw hide to raw hide, giving her, in the language of a witness, "Hail Columbia." The spectators thinking that there should be moderation in all things, interposed and stopped this castigation, and heard the explanations of the parties, from which it appeared that the daughter had been recently married to a gentleman in New York, and had run away from him and came here, taking up with Mr Nye, who had been a former lover

The mother and son were induced to leave the house, and the daughter retired to bed, suffering smartly from the effects of the cowhiding, and Mr. Nye came out of his hiding place in the stable after the coast was clear

The trouble was not all over yet, however, and in about an hour there was another ring of the door bell The servant was admonished to be careful who she let in, and opened the door ajar, when the former visitors pushed forcibly past her, and immediately went to the room of Mr and Mrs. Nye, when the brother dragged the former from the bed and gave him another tremendous whacking, continuing to apply the stick until he was stopped by the proprietor of the house and the boarders, who went to the rescue At this visit the mother did not use the hide, but while the son was attacking Nye, gave the daughter a terrible tongue lashing As before, the boarders requested them to leave the house, which invitation they finally complied with On turning their attention to the injured man, they found that he was badly cut, and took him to a neighboring drug store, where his wounds were dressed

The following morning, the young couple doubtless thinking their quarters were getting too hot for them, quietly left the house, and the following day their baggage was sent for by the porter of a hotel, the piano being left as security for the board bill —Washington Star

AN ELEGANT SENTIMENT —At the French Republican banquet given at San Francisco on the 24th ult, in anniversary of the French revolution of 1848, Victor Noly offered the following toast

"To the generous land where our forefathers, emigrants of France, found the warmest and most cordial hospitality To the land which has seen Washington and Lafayette fighting side by side, and the volunteers of the thirteen States mingled with the battalions of Rochambeau To the Great Republic, emerging victorious from a gigantic struggle of four years duration, terminated by the enfranchisement of four millions of human beings. To the country of Abraham Lincoln, the President-martyr, whose name will be engraved forever on the hearts of freemen. To the Republic of the United States, and to its forty millions of citizens, who have never borne chains, and who offer their assistance to every people who wish to break their own"

"MANY A SLIP"—A Spanish paper gravely relates how an individual named, being tired of life, resolved to take such measures as must infallibly insure his death To that end he started for the sea shore, provided with a ladder, a rope and a loaded pistol, a bottle of poison, and a box of matches. Having some time before discovered a post standing a little way out in the water, he fixed his ladder against it and ascending, fastened one end of the cord to the top and passed a slip knot around his neck Swallowing the poison, and striking a light, he set fire to his clothes, then placing the pistol to his ear, kicked away the ladder; but in doing so his hand swerved and he fired the same moment—the bullet, instead of penetrating his brain, divided the rope, and he fell into the sea, extinguishing his burning garments, also, the quantity of salt water he swallowed caused him to throw up the poison he had taken, so that he scrambled on the shore, convinced that his time had not yet come.

A fashionable young lady of Louisville, who was a noted beauty, suddenly faded to a pale, sad spectre of her former self No cause could be assigned and at length she was watched narrowly and was observed to rise in the night, and in her night dress proceed to the arbor in the garden and there sit for a long time. Her father becoming alarmed, approached and spoke to her, when he discovered that she was in a somnambulic state. She is now under medical treatment and will probably be cured

An old lady who had insisted on her minister's praying for rain, had her cabbages cut up by a hail storm, and on viewing the wreck, remarked, that she never knew him to undertake anything without overdoing the matter

Telegrams from San Francisco yesterday say that gold closed in New York at 134¼@135 Sterling was firm at 108¼@109 Legal tenders, in San Francisco were yesterday dull at 74c buying, and 74½ selling

Very little trade has been done here for the past week and prices remain with few changes There is a further slight decline in butter and bacon Flour is dull at quotations We quote Salem mills 50c lower The active demand of last week for green apples has ceased and quotations are not willing now to offer beyond $1 25@1 50 ℔ box for the best winter varieties

A sale of 1 710 sks California flour at New York is reported on the 14th on private terms The flour market in San Francisco on the same evening was steady with an improved demand for export; from which it may be concluded that advices from New York were favorable

A few orders of no great magnitude however, have been filled by our wholesale grocers for the Willamette valley merchants Beyond this, there has only been a fair city trade in that line

Large amounts of Oregon woolen goods in bolt and made up continue to be sent up the Columbia, mostly to Montana and Idaho

The receipts of produce for the week ending Thursday evening foot up 3 717 boxes apples 349 sks bacon, 10, 267 qr sks flour 18 sks dried fruit, 68 boxes eggs, 40 cases lard 10 hf bbls beef, 36 bales hay, 17 cases butter 561 sks feed 302 sks oats 6 bales wool, 18 dressed hogs, and 103 miscellaneous packages produce These were received from the Willamette counties and do not include any receipts from the Columbia, from whence several shipments of apples and hay have been received

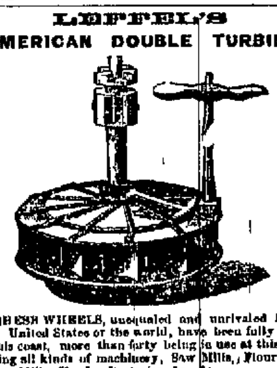
LEFFEL'S AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE



THESE WHEELS, unequaled and unrivaled in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, more than forty being in use at this date driving all kinds of machinery, Saw Mills, Flour Mills Quartz Mills Woolen Factories &c, &c

On account of the extraordinary demand, our stock of wheels is considerably reduced and we are entirely out of several sizes, therefore parties contemplating using our wheel, to be certain of securing them in time should give their order at least three months, before they expect to get them, that we may be able to make them by the time needed

We cheerfully refer to all using our wheels, and are assured that all will affirm that our wheels accomplish all and even more than we claim for them Address

Fountain of Life!

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARRIVE when a new direction is imparted to its course. It may so proceed from discovery. New facts shedding light will be changing the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind and this is that Remedy now offered to the public, in connection with the theory upon which it is based is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts It contains no Mercury or other mineral substance

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything from the days of Æsculapius down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical Science, which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER Thousands have been swept into their graves, who but they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health It requires an article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself During the stern ordeal of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test trial, and not been found wanting.

☞ Dr HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world and eradicate the disease entirely from the system or no charge made —provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to L F Peck of Portland Oregon and numbers of others, as to what a miraculous effect it had in a short time in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness Impotency etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
